Koran Angelfish. 33. A lot of the apistos found in the hobby are from captive bred sources so water quality is not as much of an issue, Ph 7 most will do well in, if your water is too hard remember we give away suitable water absolutely free of charge so make sure you ask next time you are in store. Once you move a fish technically it will need to be re quarantined. One of the biggest problems you will face as a fish keeper is parasites. Most parasites are invisible to the naked eye and any you can see tend not to be a major issue. The parasites we deal with are microscopic and they tend to be the culprits 8 of 10 times. So how can garden centers and superstores and fish shops sell fish if they do not understand the issues they are passing out? I do thankfully. But do you know the worst thing? You do not know either so you become trapped. You buy a fish chance are it will have a heavy parasite load and then it kicks off when you get the time bomb home. This kills me. Everyday I get people coming to me with the same stories my fish keep dying and then they tell me where they bought them. Basically I now say "what do you expect? Sure people are too lazy to keep fish in Ireland. They will go back to the same shop again and again with cap in hand to get advice from when you get a week old fish for a week themselves. This is the trap! This is why your fish keep dying! A perfect example. A friend of ours who buys all his fish off me went to a superstore recently and bought some cardinal tetras. Two days later he lost those cardinals plus forty of his own which were mine plus forty rummy nosed tetra which were mine plus his corydoras. Their are care sheets available throughout the internet but the best way of learning is to call in to our store and find out first hand. Decent temperament, they like planted aquariums that give them plenty of places to hide and invariably if you provide one or two females they are relatively easy to breed. Bala shark. In this case the parameters were spot on...Ph crashes can be the culprit in many cases fish tend to display similar symptoms due to acidosis...lots of mucous production...fraying of the fins, blood vessels rupturing, general lethargy and most likely death...I cannot stress the importance of the correct PH balance you must test your system at least once a week...this is how we communicate with our animals. Anyway sorry I have so much to say I am wandering here. It is about why fish keep dying...OK on the basis that you acclimatize your fish correctly by adding aquarium water to the bag slowly over 20 to 30 min till bag fills up and your water parameters are where they should be then fish after a period of six weeks should fully acclimatize. What I mean by acclimatize is that the fish will have adjusted to the water conditions in your tank. This six week window is the real issue here. Most people will have their issues in that period. To overcome this deadly time you must quarantine your fish. Yes you must not me. If I quarantine a fish then give it to you the same thing will happen. Shops that boast about quarantine...don't really know what they are talking about. It's just words...to win you over. This is a science after all remember that. Black Widow Tetra. Easy to care for as long as well fed, they are hardy and well used to our climate but will not eat algae as so many other shops will swear blind that they do...these are primarily sterlets so they wont get much bigger than 30 inches...they diamond we have on the other hand is already that size and will continue to grow...for ever...I find a little bit of dramatics makes the day go smoother... "Endler - Winger Gold" XL 2013 Micropoecilia sp. Marine: 124. Wait a moment and try again. As for fish...this is where it gets tricky. 31. leave the lights off until they settle in. Green Chromis. 110. jo-meri-rookhuhla-diya-remixidil-ke-badle-sanam Welcome to WordPress. Buy two tropical fish get one free!...that is 33% off...who sells their finest stock at such low prices? We have a new shipment of marine fish in, there are some cracking fish in stock...Like Flame angels...always a crack addition to anyone's marine aquarium. Jan 27 August 2015 updated. 50. Topaz Pufferfish. Have a nice day Ian 16/03/2017 Hello folks. We have new marines in stock from now on we get a weekly delivery so we are building up our fish stock and corals again. 102. Praesent finibus congue euismod. So aggression needs to be addressed. It is those annoying floating suspended bits that freak us out the most is it not? It does not matter what fish you keep it is always the same. I come across this all the time. Well managing physical waste is called mechanical filtration as opposed to biological filtration. Biological filtration is the action of the bacteria we culture in our filters...it can take up to two months to colonize our filters properly with nitrosomonas and nitrobacter the two bacteria that form a biofilm in our filters...this is what we call the biological function of our filter. It is an easy concept to understand. These bacteria are slow growing and are oxygen dependent they have an optimum temperature for growth over the temperature we keep our fish at so technically our filters never run to their optimum levels...but that's by the by. On the basis that they do for argument sake the populations of the colonies can only grow in accordance with the amount of food that is available to them...this food source is Ammonia. Most of this chemical is produced by the exchange of gases through the respiratory function of the gills. But I am getting off on a tangent here as I do...the biological function of our filter must be safe guarded at all times. 45. 49. The big problem is that there are mutations due to the level of farming out there so some out breaks can be much harder to kill. I recommend either Protazol by the company Sera this is a serious treatment I love it or else Ws3 by King British also a cracking white spot treatment. 4. Ian Hello, We are always wondering do people actually read our blogs? once your order is placed you will not receive any unwanted annoying emails from us until the fish are shipped, once the box leaves the store we will send your tracking number to the email address provided at the time the order was placed. Depending on aquarium size we can offer dwarf species particularly Apistogramma species, this are dwarf cichlids from South America Fabulous colours right? stock levels are up and down with shipping delays all over the world, these are live animals not boxes of shoes on a shelf, they come and go weekly so please be patient. Ian here. Plecostomus Angelicus. 98. Dwarf Pufferfish (pea Puffer) 64. So basically another shop has wrecked the hobby for one of my customers. I took samples of his dead fish and showed him the problems under the microscope he was appalled. Now most people will take this on the chin. At least for a while. They went question the stock they are getting even if there are dead fish in the tanks. I keep saying to people use your common sense for god sake. People can be so stupid they make me want to scream. Some of our best customers travel the length of Ireland to visit me and it's is great to meet enthusiastic people it recharges the battery. 250 thousand people within 6 miles of me and what do I have to listen too? Your too far out! I can not help people like that. If I have to explain to them that if they complain to me about why their fish die all the time then tell me I am too far out I will eventually strangle one of them. 5170 Ancistrus sp. At vero eos et accusam Sed ut perspiciatis unde omnis iste natus error sit voluptatem accusantium doloremque laudantium, totam rem aperiam eaque ipsa, quae ab illo inventore veritatis et quasi architecto beatae vitae dicta sunt, explicabo. But on a more serious note. The health of fish in Irish stores today is shocking. I can look after 425 tanks on my own why can't they look after what little they have? 28. we will monitor the forecast and decide when its safe to send out the fish. Thank you for all your help and support. Well folks a lot of you have asked in our website, why its not being updated on a regular basis ect ect. I come from a thinking approach fish have been my life for over 30 years we used to make professional filters and on occasion we still do when we need too. Brushes will settle solids and solids stick to solids so with in no time you will be shocked at the amount of physical waste a couple of brush chambers in inline will collect. Anyway for a sump we are more restricted. The biggest problem is the return from the tank which will be approx 3500 lph. I do suggest the sock great idea to a degree but the solids will eventually go into solution you will only trap the coarse material but it is something I like the concept...like all concept. You need to provide a way of slowing the water to a halt so solids will precipitate out of the water column. Bio balls are as good as any but layers of poly wool would be more effective. I love poly wool it is so versatile. It ticks all the boxes. You can use it to prestrain and trap the solids keeping them from moving through the system. Remember to turn off the system before removing so you have a static body of water. This prevents contamination of other chambers then you can syphon off the solids that settle while you do your maintenance. Biological media I love siporax it is tremendous every copies it in one way or another but the original is still the best. Sera do bulk siporax we are the agents (little plug there) As a guideline it takes about a cubic foot of media to handle a 1000 litres of water you can use that to gauge the project. I would then use my graded foam coarse medium then fine on the return pump just to keep the last escapes from beating the system. It does not have to be complicated. Fish keepers ultimately battle with particles...its all a visual thing...particles will be beaten by flow rates and the correct building of the weir in the tank. If your weir is just a standard over the top you will have problems if it has an outer box that collects from the bottom first then you are ok I guess. You can always use an external for removing any stubborn particles in my opinion. We have a marine delivery arriving tomorrow or thursday, our quest to rebuild our marine stocks is definitely on I am already compiling next weeks order so this will make it four deliveries in a row it's just people keep buying them as they come in so it can be frustrating but a challenge ....look on the bright side Ian... 40. We have struck some new deals with suppliers. 2183 Ancistrus sp. Glowlight Tetra. Wolf Fish. Voltans Lion Fish. Anyway I am digressing...as usual. Remember never clean your filters biological media IE sponges etc near untreated tap water. We use water taken from the aquarium. The reason for this is municipal water will invariably contain chlorine and chlorine kills bacteria so in effect you will be sterilizing your filters and we do not want to do that. So tap water must be conditioned using a suitable water conditioner! Remember always test your water in the days following filter maintenance your water may look clean and healthy but by now we should know better! If you have done the job correctly then your ammonia levels and nitrite should be nil the way it should be. 2196 Ancistrus sp. Blushing Angelfish. Blue Acara / Electric blue acara Hybrid. 2185 Ancistrus sp. Tired of the same old fish? So stop buying fish in shops that have a poor track record. It is as simple as that. Do not buy from people that do not know what they are doing end off your water quality is good then there is a problem. That is a fact. Where did you buy that problem? Go back and get it sorted. Red oscar. stock control on the vast array of species we hold (around 2500) is not an option, we would simply spend too much time counting instead of caring for them. Richard McClintock, a Latin professor at Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia, looked up one of the more obscure Latin words, consectetur, from a Lorem Ipsum passage, and going through the cites of the word in classical literature, discovered the undoubtable source. We are the longest in the trade and our mission is to dispel rumor and innuendo in relation to fish keeping, do not be afraid to try something new just because shops cant get them or else it is outside their expertise remember these fish exist and once they exist they have a part to play in the hobby its up to us to make sure they are cared for. it is simply a term used to describe a service offered by the courier company. Come up and let me show you stuff. Let's just talk. Let's talk about Monster fish keeping and Jungle Hooks and fish warrior...we sell all those fish by the way...but my commitment to the public is I WILL TAKE BACK ALL LIVESTOCK WHICH I HAVE SOLD AND I WILL FIND SUITABLE HOMES FOR THOSE ANIMALS...so let's drop the arguments over what fish should be kept versus what shouldn't, it is a lame and totally pointless conversation. Either we keep fish in captivity or we don't that is the argument. No body ever cries about the million neon tetras that probably get killed in aquariums every year do they? All we can do is our best full stop and that is where I come in. Malawi Eyebiter. Thank you for your time, aquatic village team. Ian Patrick Compton Fungus whitespot We have Honduras Red Point cichlids in stock at the moment...not an easy fish to find...some customers looking for these. Remember we have a sale on so tell your friends. 27. it has three empty baskets what media should I use or should I use sponge filters on my 350L tank Answer--: Hi there, Ah yes ye old African tank...I have an 8 foot African tank with nearly 300 fish in it in work it is pretty awesome and I am a big African fan. The reason I keep it so densely stock is to keep aggression to a minimum which it is considering that some of the fish are over 30 cm. On the basis that you have a 350litre tank I would suggest that you would use two externals rather than one. Alternate the cleaning of them leaving at least 4 weeks between servicing so one will be on the ascendancy as the other is on the decline biologically because one service one of the filters it is pretty much foobarred. The biofilm gets sloughed off and the bacteria being really slow to recover will not handle the ammonia produced by your fish that is why testing after clean outs is essential till stability returns. The most important thing is to grade the media used. What media you choose is a personal choice really. But depending on water flow it should go coarse to fine. Catching waste particles in this way is more efficient than bunging up the media. In professional treatment systems this is very evident. We have a specially designed RO system that has pretreatment stages based on this science and we use pressure gauges to inform us when each stage is becoming a problem. As for media medium I like coarse sponge when it forms its biofilm it is a great remover of heavy particles in a small area. Bio balls are a joke for me they are totally inefficient in a confined space where as in a large body of water ie koi filters large chambers they are great for slowing water down and settling solids. Siporax is legendary because of its porosity and filter wool too. But make sure the filter is up to the job flow rate wise. 350 litres is a large body of water your biggest problem will be settlement in the tank because of current. I would have an f6 run this system or two 1200 1500lph externals as an alternative. My african tank runs at..... wait for it..... 12000lph and it is always spotless so your tank would equate to the f6 filter 3500 lph. 127. WHEN THEY ARRIVE... When your new fish arrive, allow the box to settle for 10 mins on a flat surface, in front of your tank would be ideal, there are many tips and tricks to acclimating new arrivals, we find a piece of air hose to siphon water and slow drip it into the bag or bucket is the best, dim the lights too keep stress to a minimum, after 30-40 mins of dripping they fish can be added to your tank. Ian Hello everyone, Just a little update as to what is happening at Aquatic Village these days. Anyway this discussion is a quick blog to help some of the confusion when it comes to selecting filters. Most filters are good. There I said it. Choose one that suits your needs. That is where we come in. Go to your local fish shop and have a chat...biological filtration is my life I have over 40 sump filters alone to manage in work...if you have any queries I would be delighted to help out. 21. Corydoras Aenus Venezuelan Black. So forget clear water! Clear water means nothing. Our filters are like factories they take a harmful waste and produce a lesser waste from it called nitrate. This happens 24/7 so do not become complacent. Nitrate has to be removed one way or another. Water changes is the most common way but using plants to consume nitrate is the most aesthetically pleasing. 78. XL 3101 Ancistrus sp. Gold 2189 Ancistrus sp. Gold 7337 Ancistrus sp.
